Meet Bruce Young from the University of British Columbia, Okanagan Campus

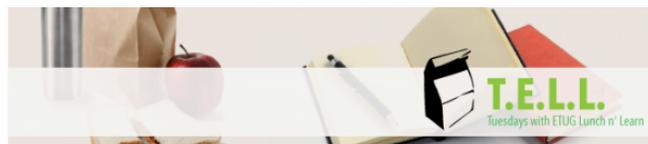

Tell us a bit about where you work and what you do.

I am an eLearning Instructional Support Specialist at the University of British Columbia Okanagan Campus. In addition to helping support the UBC Blackboard implementation, I also support blogs, wikis, video as well as screen and lecture capture. I am actively involved in face-to-face support as well as delivering workshops to faculty and teaching assistants regarding the use of technology. I enjoy the wide range of areas that I have become involved in since starting at UBCO in May 2012.

[T.E.L.L April
Summary]

Creating a

Professional Conference Poster

If you're not a regular conference-goer you might not even know they exist. But from the various conferences I've attended over the years I've learned that poster sessions are worth checking out even if they're scheduled at odd times or in less-frequented corners of the conference...
